

Corrigendum to “Small-scale heterogeneity of trace metals including rare earth elements and yttrium in deep-sea sediments and porewaters of the Peru Basin, southeastern equatorial Pacific” published in Biogeosciences, 16, 4829–4849, 2019

Sophie A. L. Paul¹, Matthias Haeckel², Michael Bau¹, Rajina Bajracharya¹, and Andrea Koschinsky¹

¹Department of Physics and Earth Sciences, Jacobs University Bremen, 28759 Bremen, Germany

²GEOMAR Helmholtz Centre for Ocean Research Kiel, 24148 Kiel, Germany

Correspondence: Sophie A. L. Paul (s.paul@jacobs-university.de)

Published: 5 February 2020

During image processing the concentration for Mn in Fig. 7 was inserted incorrectly (nmol L^{-1}). The correct Mn concentration is given in the new version of Fig. 7 below ($\mu\text{mol L}^{-1}$).

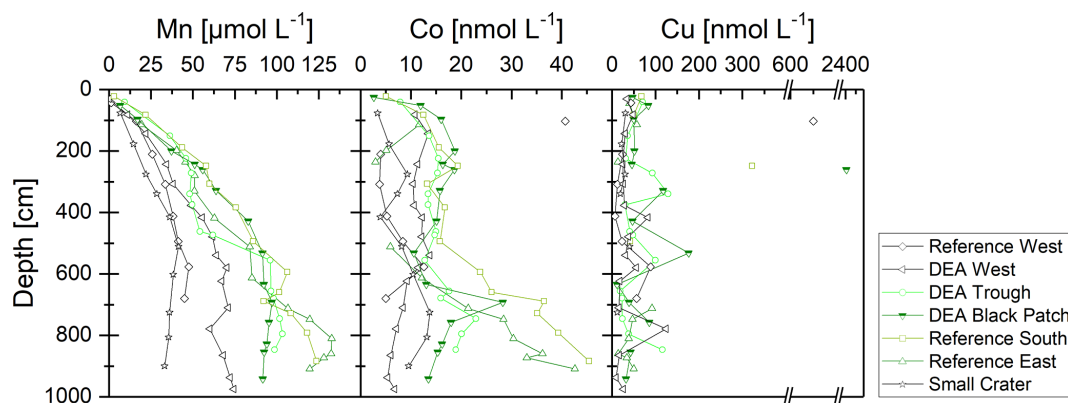

Figure 7. Dissolved Mn, Co, and Cu concentrations in the porewater of the sediment cores. No porewater could be extracted from buried nodules.