

Supplement of

Fire activity in the northern Arctic tundra now exceeds late Holocene levels, driven by increasing dryness and shrub expansion

Angelica Feurdean et al.

Correspondence to: Angelica Feurdean (feurdean@em.uni-frankfurt.de) and Mariusz Gałka (mariusz.galka@biol.uni.lodz.pl)

- bg-22-6651-2025-supplement-title-page.pdf
- Supplement_S1_22062025.xlsx

The copyright of individual parts of the supplement might differ from the article licence.