

Interactive comment on “Influence of temperature and CO₂ on the strontium and magnesium composition of coccolithophore calcite” by M. N. Müller et al.

A. D. Wanamaker Jr. (Referee)

adw@iastate.edu

Received and published: 9 December 2013

At the end of my review I did not include the range of pCO₂ conditions that I was interested in for one question.

Here is the corrected version of that question.

Are Mg/Ca ratios under the pCO₂ conditions noted in this study a valid proxy for productivity? If so, what potential problems might exist with this interpretation?

Interactive comment on Biogeosciences Discuss., 10, 15559, 2013.