

Dear Steven

That is great news. Thank you for all your work as editor on this manuscript. I have run through your comments and addressed them with tracked changes in the attached document. I note that the p value for the difference between control and shaded treatments you refer to on line 247-248 was just over 0.05 ($p = 0.08$). This value is now specified in the manuscript and I have made a small change to the discussion in regards to this. Please let me know if you would like us to make any further changes.

Best Regards

Richard
