

Interactive comment on “Atmospheric concentrations of carbon dioxide and its isotopic composition in southern Poland: comparison of high-altitude mountain site and a near-by urban environment” by L. Chmura et al.

In reply to the authors' reply (by J. Necki) on my original referee report:

Unfortunately the authors' intention to publish a pure data paper had not been mentioned explicitly in the text of the manuscript. It would have shed a different light on the manuscript. However, given the fact that a more in-depth isotope paper is already underway (had not been mentioned as well), the new strategy of the authors comes unexpected but is very much appreciated. Looking forward for the revised version!
