The manuscript has received fairly favorable comments by reviewer #1 and by myself (note that I had to act as reviewer because one of the reviewers nominated by the authors did not react).

The issue with the flux footprint is mentioned in both reviews, in addition reviewer #1 would like to see a few issues to be elaborated in more detail.

In summary I would think that minor revisions will be necessary to make the manuscript acceptable for publication. I thus suggest that the authors carefully consider all the comments and resubmit a revised manuscript in due course.
