We appreciate the comments given by Anonymous Reviewers #1 and #2, they helped a lot to improve the quality of the manuscript. We are going to incorporate all of their suggestions, as listed in separate replies to their interactive comments.

Also, we thank a lot to Giuseppe Civitarese and Miroslav Gacic, who put several short comments on the paper and our replies. Although we argued with some of comments, “fighting” to keep for our original hypothesis, we found a number of issues they raised plausible which we will incorporate in the manuscript. Particularly, we will include some our new results which we provided when replying to their comments, and will put more cautiously some of our “speculations” as something which should be additionally tested (proved or rejected) in the future.
