We would like to thank all three reviewers for providing helpful, constructive comments that will help us to provide a more concise, clearer, revised manuscript. All three reviewers seem to feel that the manuscript is well written but it is clear that parts of it are too long and that, although it is a good "review" we need to try harder to synthesize the information to provide a clearer take home message. In particular we need to develop the final sections to provide better guidance about future research approaches and questions. We hope to be able to achieve all these goals if we are allowed to submit a revised manuscript.
