

Thank you for accepting the manuscript. Note that in the uploaded text, there is a small number of corrected spelling mistakes, an inclusion of a reference to coastlines used in the maps, and the code and data availability links now point to the latest versions used to produce the accepted results.

While the title still starts with “Technical note:”, we were wondering if this is still appropriate given the length of the post-reviewed manuscript. We will be happy with any editorial decision in this regard.

Thank you

Douglas Kelley, on behalf of co-authors.