The two reviewers are both positive about the relevance and level of interest of the analysis, and generally subscribe the followed approach and data used. Both reviewers also make suggestions for further analysis and clarifications, and agree on a desire to elaborate more on the results and implications of the study.

The authors have given a detailed point-by-point reply to the review comments, and agree with nearly all comments made. Also they make solid proposals for accommodating these comments, thereby making proper use of the review process to clarify the manuscript and increase the level of interest even further.

I do agree with the reviewers assessments and also appreciate the authors' willingness and ability to modify their manuscript accordingly. I do invite the authors to follow this approach, and will check on the degree to which the authors' intentions to reply to the reviews are being met in a new version of the manuscript. If this revision is in my view successful in addressing the reviewers' needs I will not send it out for another review round
